From arriving at Sittingbourne Viaduct station and its Marvellous Mural through to the trip over the century-old, kilometre-long, Milton Regis Viaduct and through Milton Creek Country Park to the active paper mill at Kemsley Down, a journey on Sittingbourne's Steam Railway is quite unique!

The Railway operates over the southern half of the former paper mill industrial railway system using original steam locomotives and rolling stock.

The narrow (2ft 6in) gauge steam locomotives Leader, Melior and Superb will take turns to operate trains throughout the season.

The journey takes 15 minutes in both directions. Kemsley Down is the main base for the Railway and here you will find the engine shed, sidings, small exhibits museum, Footplate Café, shop, picnic areas and award winning wildlife garden. Feel free to stay for a while and catch a later train home to enjoy the facilities.

We aim to be an affordable, family-friendly day out that also caters for railway enthusiasts, local and industrial historians.

The Railway is run entirely by volunteers and we are always looking for more help, not just with the operation of the Railway but also the maintenance and upkeep of the entire two-mile site.

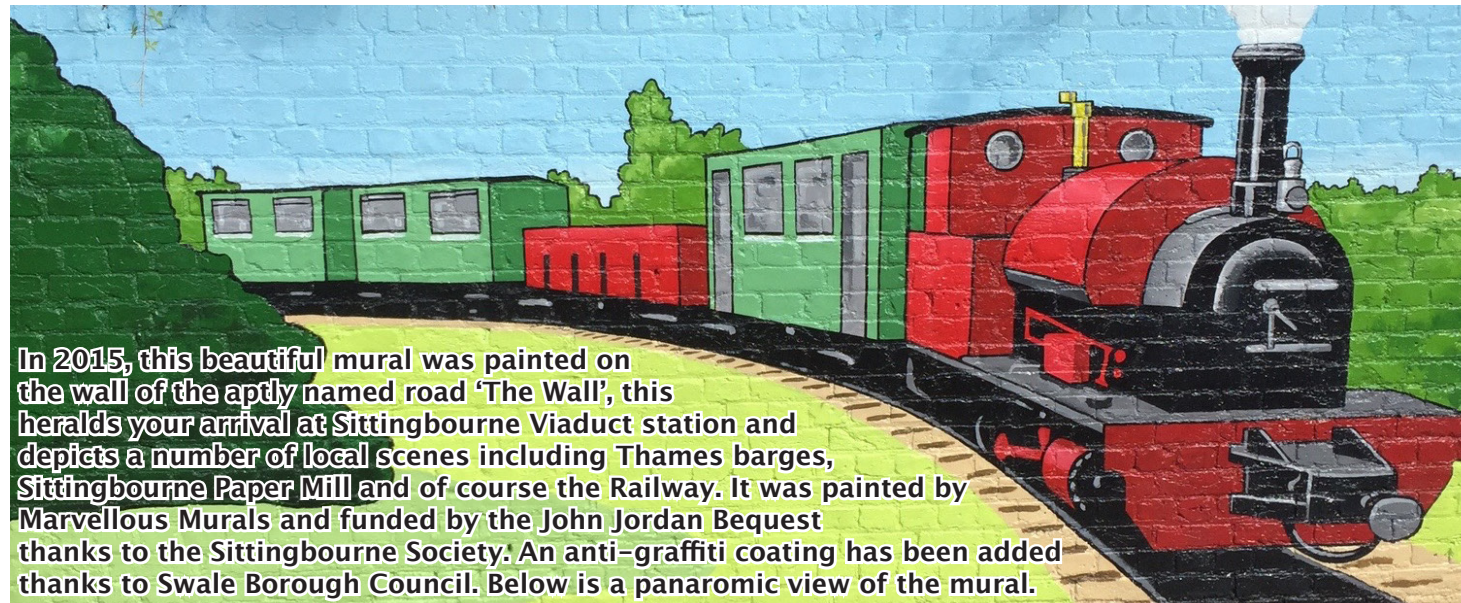

Please check our website (www.sklr.net) for weekly updates and information. We also have a Facebook Group and an app which is available from the Apple, Amazon and Android app stores – just search for 'Sittingbourne' and it will appear in the list.

In 2015, this beautiful mural was painted on the wall of the aptly named road 'The Wall', this heralds your arrival at Sittingbourne Viaduct station and depicts a number of local scenes including Thames barges, Sittingbourne Paper Mill and of course the Railway. It was painted by Marvellous Murals and funded by the John Jordan Bequest thanks to the Sittingbourne Society. An anti-graffiti coating has been added thanks to Swale Borough Council. Below is a panoramic view of the mural.
